

“From the days of John the Baptist until now the kingdom of heaven suffers violence, and the violent take it by force.” (Matthew 11:12)

“Some understand this verse as a mandate, from the mouth of Jesus himself, for Christians to employ spiritual violence to advance the kingdom of God on earth.”

“That violence [on January 6] is merely the tip of the iceberg.”

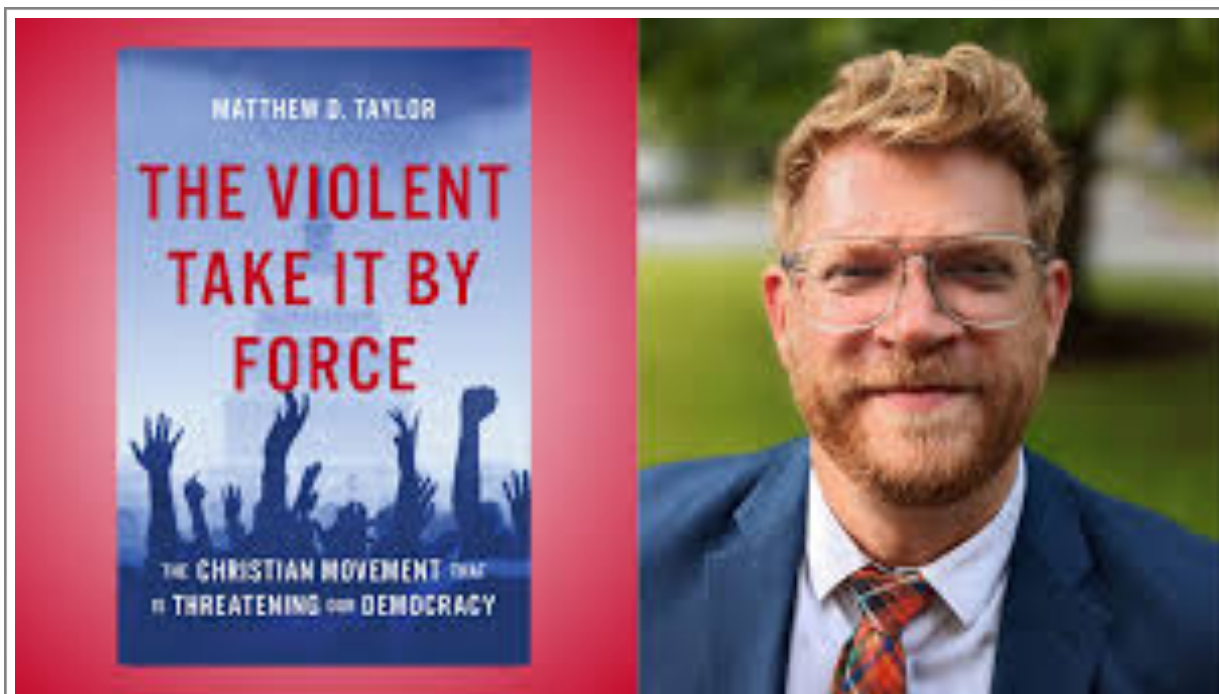

“Spiritual warfare [aims] to take back spiritual territory from the territorial spirits.”

“This is a war that we’re in, this is a big time spiritual war.” (General Michael Flynn)

“If your political opponents are, literally, inspired by demons, then there’s no negotiating with them.”

“Many of the apostles and prophets and adherents of the movement can ... be understood as Christian supremacists.”

“What will become of our pluralistic democracy if their Christian supremacist revival and reformation come to pass?”

“Christian supremacists may jubilantly declare Jesus is king over all creation, but as long as we’re waiting for Jesus to return, they’re keen to govern in his stead.”

“We [Christians] are going to rule and reign through President Trump and under the lordship of Jesus Christ.” (Che Ahn)

“The Seven Mountain Mandate is one of the most important prophetic memes in all of global Independent Charismatic Christianity today. It has become the organizing structure for how millions of Christians think about politics and the relationship between the church and the world.”

“We have to wake up. We’re living in a spiritual war ... Worship is our weapon.” (Sean Feucht)

“We are in the midst of an epistemic crisis. [Many] have become unmoored from reality ... I would argue that charismatic experiences are playing a starring role in creating this discombobulation about what constitutes truth and how we know it.”

“Apostles and prophets of Christian rage.”

“They have brought their style of Christianity into the heart of right-wing politics.”

“The best people to defang extremist Christianity are Christians.”
